CU-NEXT Announces Selection of New President

Panama City, FL

CU-NEXT is pleased to announce the appointment of William B. Spearman as its new President. With senior management experience at some of the largest banks in the United States, Spearman is an experienced and proficient financial services executive involved with developing and leading startup community banks. He has effectively managed Credit, Collections, Retail, and Commercial lines of business, and has served in a leadership capacity on numerous special project teams charged with increasing revenues, improving efficiencies, and decreasing delinquencies.

Bill Spearman graduated from Loyola University in New Orleans and is currently pursuing a Doctorate in Dispute and Conflict Resolution at Nova Southeastern University. His wide range of experience will prove invaluable as he leads the credit union service organization in its goal of providing credit union clients nationwide with a wide range of consulting, loss prevention, and strategic services needed in today's challenging economy.

About CU-NEXT

CU-NEXT originated as part of Tyndall Federal Credit Union, a $1 billion financial institution in Panama City, FL. The credit union service organization was designed and created by credit union professionals to assist other credit unions to quickly identify issues and structure themselves for long-term viability. Overall, the goal of CU-NEXT is to provide clients with the tools they need to help them thrive in any financial market.
